Subject: NWWAC response - European Ocean Act: Call for evidence for an evaluation and impact assessment run in parallel

The North Western Waters Advisory Council (NWWAC) welcomes the opportunity to contribute to this call for evidence. Introduced in 2025, the European Ocean Pact is a comprehensive strategy to unify ocean governance under a single framework. A critical component of the Pact is the commitment to propose a legally binding Ocean Act by 2027 which aims to improve the coherence and effective implementation of maritime governance in the EU by building on the on the revision of the Maritime Spatial Planning Directive (Directive 2014/89/EU).

In this call for evidence, the Commission identifies several problems the Ocean Act initiative aims to tackle grouped under the headings of (1) Ocean Governance and (2) Climate, pollution and environmental pressures.

Following review of the information provided and based on the recommendations made by this AC over the past years, the NWWAC strongly supports the parallel running of an evaluation and impact assessment in order to ensure that the Ocean Act is built on real-world evidence as provided by regional authorities, scientific institutes and most importantly stakeholders, rather than theoretical goals. This approach would help improve on and avoid replication of various shortcomings of previous policies.

Since its inception, the NWWAC has addressed issues under the identified problem headings and provided consensus advice to the Commission and the NWW Member States Group. Therefore, the NWWAC wishes to recall its main advice papers and recommends that the issues raised, and recommendations made in these are reviewed and evaluated by the Commission as part of this call for evidence.

The above list represents a selection of the most relevant advice papers submitted by the NWWAC since 2022 and is by no means exhaustive as multiple advice submissions have been made each year since 2005. All advice submissions can be found on the NWWAC website here.

In addition, the NWWAC emphasises that the concept of regionalisation must be reinforced in any future structure aiming at bringing cohesion to maritime governance in Europe. European waters are incredibly diverse, and management must be tailored to the unique biological and socio-economic realities of different sea basins.

The NWWAC stands ready to continue its involvement with and contribution to the work of the European Commission in their efforts to improve the governance and management of the European seas, in particular by contributing to the proposed public consultation as part of this initiative.

Yours sincerely,

Alexandra Philippe
NWWAC Chair
